GENERAL COMMENTS

Cash corn prices are slightly lower across the U.S. this week with basis narrowing to 13 cents under March futures. Prices for DDGS FOB ethanol plants are $1.50/MT lower, following a sharp decrease in Kansas City soymeal prices. DDGS are priced at 108 percent of cash corn values, steady with last week and above the three-year average. The DDGS/soymeal price ratio is 0.49, higher than the prior week and above the three-year average.

DDGS markets are still quiet this week as traders emerge from the holiday lull. Merchandisers report active inquiries from Asian buyers, but sales are slow so far. Barge CIF NOLA values are $1-2/MT lower this week but forecasts for winter weather across much of the Midwest this weekend/early next week could tighten the market due to logistics issues. FOB Gulf values are $3/MT lower for spot shipment while deferred positions are mostly steady. Asking prices for 40-foot containers to Southeast Asia are steady for January shipment at $246/MT while February/March values are slightly lower.

OCEAN FREIGHT MARKET

For vessel owners, there has been no joy to the start the 2020 marketing season. The last six week have been brutal. Fuel costs have risen and the cost of installing scrubbers has increased operating costs, but freight markets have not provided needed compensation for any of this. The cost to retrofit scrubbers is estimated to be $4-5 million for a very large ship. The installation cost for a new-built vessel is least at around $3 million. Alphaliner estimates that 95 container ships are currently inactive as they have scrubbers installed. Container shippers have been partially successful in adding Environmental Fuel Fees (EFF) surcharges to their short-term contracts (less than three months) and Bunker Adjustment Factors to long-term contracts. But Dry-Bulk shippers have been depending on market forces for assistance, but markets have been unsympathetic. The industrial slow down in China and the tariff wars have been primarily to blame for this.
