GENERAL COMMENTS

U.S. DDGS prices are steady/higher this week with corn and soymeal futures respective rallies offering support. Merchandisers report there are fewer offers available after corn futures' limit-up day on Thursday as sellers and buyers reassess market fundamentals. The DDGS/cash corn ratio is 0.90, down from the prior week and below the three-year average of 1.10. The DDGS/Kansas City soymeal ratio is down from last week at 0.48 and above the three-year average of 0.42.

On the export front, DDGS prices are sharply following this week's rally in multiple CBOT markets. Barge CIF NOLA offers are up $10-16/MT while FOB Gulf offers are up $21-23/MT for May-July. U.S. rail rates are higher with noted increases for July-September positions. Offers for 40-foot containers to Southeast Asia are higher this week but have so far lagged gains in the barge or FOB markets. The average offer for containerized DDGS to Southeast Asia hit $332/MT for May shipment this week and $339/MT for June.

OCEAN FREIGHT MARKET

It was “off to the races” again this week for dry-bulk freight markets. The Baltic Dry-Bulk index reached its highest point since October 2010. Vessel owners have visions of a Freight Super Cycle in play, and, in the words of FIS Freight Investors, they are “singing Frank Sinatra’s 1964 hit song Fly Me to the Moon”. I do not see the full fundamental justification of this outlook, nor do I share their frenzied excitement, but would not want to stand in front of the market right now. Last week, Santos Brazil to China rates were down $5.00/MT, this week they are up $5.50/MT. There should be some sellers at these higher rates.

The rebalancing of Capesize markets versus smaller ships has, for the most part, accomplished its goal. Capesize daily rates reached $36,000 for May while daily Panamax rates climbed from $22,000 to $26,000 in the May slot and $23,750 for June.
